KA KE JI KU

-Japanese Hanging Scroll-
 Art representing Japanese culture and tradition

Japanese hanging scroll, known as Kakejiku, is not only a form of art for enjoyment, but also an important tool to tighten the bond among family members. Unlike framed pictures, Kakejiku can be rolled so it minimizes its space of storage. With its compact design, Japanese people possess various kakejiku and decorate them according to different seasons or festivals. During family events, a house master decorates scroll that is appropriate to the events in order to show hospitality to the family and guests attending the events. So if you want to enjoy and know more about Japanese culture, decorating Kakejiku should be one of the best ways.
